TEXTILE STRIKE LESS THAN 50 PCT. EFFECTIVE; VIOLENCE INCREASES AS 200,000 DESERT JOBS

BRITISH, U.S. FIRMS SAID TO DOMINATE WORLD'S MARKETS

Sir Basil Zaharoff, Super-Salesman of Death Instruments, Revealed as Agent of Electric Boat-Vickers Combine.

SENATORS HEAR BRIBERY HINTS

Testimony Indicates Two Companies Received Share of Profit on Every Undersea Craft.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The framework of what amounts to a virtual international monopoly in submarine building with Sir Basil Zaharoff, super-salesman of munitions as an active agent, was traced today before the senate munitions committee.

The startling story was unfolded under questioning by officials of the Electric Boat Company, of New London, Conn., who thought an arrangement with the British firm of Vickers Ltd., have all but dominated the world business of making the underwater craft.

Sir Basil, intimated, received and confided statements, royalty and $700,000 from the Electric Boat Company from 1919 to 1930 through his ability to obtain and hold lucrative contracts for submarines from the Spanish government. The boat company let the patents for the construction and shared in the profits.

Henry R. Carse, of New York, president of the Electric Boat Company, told Senator Nye, chairman of the senate investigating committee, that he had heard Zaharoff held a "controlling interest" in Vickers.

That was only hearsay, he added.

500 Georgians Caught In Hunting License Net

Between five and six hundred Georgians have been arrested during the past week for hunting without licenses. Zach D. Cravey, state game and fish commissioner, said Tuesday in announcing that 60 deputy game wardens had been appointed to assist in keeping down violations.

The extra deputies will assist the 13 regular district wardens and will serve until the end of the current season, March 31.

"Fifty to seventy-five of the hunters arrested," Commissioner Cravey said, "were caught shooting on baited fields. Many others were prominent men, court clerks, peace officers, and such. We are putting everybody on notice right now that everybody must eat out of the same trough and that we will not countenance violations."

ITALIAN PRINCESS, ARCHDUKE OTTO WILL BE MARRIED

Decision To Link Dynasties in Matrimony Made at Meeting of King, Queen Empress.

VIA-REGGIO, Italy, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Italy's king and queen met Austria's erstwhile empress quietly here today, and decided to link the two dynasties in matrimony.

The royal conclave, it was learned, approved the engagement of Archduke Otto, Bourbon-Hapsburg pretender to the Austrian throne, to marry Princess Maria, youngest daughter of King Victor Emanuel and Queen Elena, of Italy.

No formal announcement of the oft-rumored engagement was issued, but Prince Felix, prince consort of the grand duchess of Luxembourg, who is visiting former Empress Zita, of Austria, here, confirmed to the Associated Press the fact that the match had been decided.

The official announcement, it was understood, would be delayed pending clarification of Otto's position in reference to the restoration of the monarchy in Austria and Hungary.

No unostentatious was the arrival of Italy's regent, accompanied by the pretty Princess Maria, at the semi-deserted villa where the Bourbon-Hapsburg villa stands that few residents of Via-Reggio knew they were within miles of the city.

A closed limousine brought the royal party from their summer residence at the villa where Zita has been living for the past month.

Hapsburg planners saluted them as the gates swung wide, and Zita welcomed them immediately into the villa's showy drawing room.

Here they talked for an hour, the 19-year-old princess being present.

Details connected with the unofficial betrothal were quickly settled, aristocratic members of Zita's entourage said.

The former empress then introduced

TALMADGE SCORES FOES FOR 'LIFTING' 2 OF HIS PLANKS

Low Price Tag, Payment of Teachers Taken Up by Opposition, Ashburn Crowd Hears.

By L. A. FARRELL.

ASHBURN, Ga., Sept. 4.—Making his second address of his final campaign tour of the state, Governor Eugene Talmadge today bitterly scored his opposition for what he said was the lifting of two of the most important planks in his platform, the payment of the past-due salaries of state school teachers and pending pensions of Confederate veterans and their widows and $3 automobile tag, although he warned his audience that the people can take no stock in "the opposition's promise of a $2 or a $3 tag."

Speaking at the Turner county courthouse before a crowd estimated at 8,000 which more than made up in enthusiasm anything it may have lacked in numbers, the governor received assurance from the throng that he would carry every county in this area, including adjacent Crisp county, which he failed to carry in the 1932 primary.

In his calling of the roll of counties, the governor found large delegations here from every county bordering on Turner. From Crisp county nearly 1,000 people had come to hear the speech. As usual, at the end of his address, the governor took a poll of the crowd and found them practically all ready to vote for him a week from tomorrow.

Crowd Put at 8,000.

The official estimate of the throng was made by Representative O. Z. Harden, of Turner county, unopposed candidate for the state senate from this district. Mr. Harden, chairman of the Ashburn committee on arrangements, fixed the total at slightly more than 8,000.

"It is by far the largest crowd ever assembled in Ashburn for any purpose," Senator Harden said. "We are more than pleased with the turnout, especially after such a tremendous crowd at Macon yesterday."

The poll of the counties showed about a score represented with the largest delegation from Turner and those counties adjacent to it.

Included in the throng was a large delegation from nearby Worth county, the home of Dr. J. M. Sutton, ousted state veterinarian, who is running for commissioner of agriculture on a straight out anti-Talmadge platform.

"How's Worth going?" the governor asked after that county had notified him of its representation.

"Ninety per cent for Talmadge," a voice in the delegation responded and the rest whooped up his accord.

"The opposition tells you it is for payment of the $2,000,000 Talmadge's highway board has saved up for the Confederate veterans and their widows and for the state school teachers," the governor said.

"Easy To Spend Money."

"Anybody can pay out money. We all know how easy it is to spend money, especially after someone else has saved it up. But I wonder if the opposition would have made the extra effort to get this money in the treasury by reducing the overhead expenses of the highway department?"

"In other words, I think it is generally agreed that it would not."

Alabaman Arrested On Extortion Charge

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The arrest of Isaac Newton Crumpton, of Birmingham, Ala., charged with attempting to extort money from Louis Pittman, a merchant of that city, was announced today by the department of justice.

Crumpton was taken into custody August 30, officials said, while attempting to obtain a decoy package in which Pittman supposedly had placed $600 on Crumpton's demand. Officials said that stationery found on the arrested man was identical with that used in sending three threatening letters to Pittman.

Court Bars Long Troops From Polls in Primary Federal Jurist Also Issues Restraining Order Against Registrar's Removal of Names From Voters' List.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 4.—Rights of governing the said city, by arms, if necessary, and to eject or imprison any "purported agent or employee" of the bureau who enters the city "to perform the illegal functions attempted to be conferred upon them" by the acts of the legislature.

Earlier today, the federal government stepped into the Long-Walmsley political battle of troops, police, legislature and courts for the first time.

United States District Judge Wayne G. Borah late today issued a restraining order, upon the petition of two citizens, against the state-appointed registrar of voters, R. J. Gregory, commanding him not to remove the names of any voters from the list to be used in the September 11 congressional primary.

The registration office is now, and has been for more than a month, in possession of Senator Long's national guardmen.

The suit was submitted in federal court by two voters, A. Morgan Brian and Ernest P. Miller, who charged that Long, Governor O. K. Allen, the registrar of voters, and General Raymond H. Fleming, head of the national guard, on the night of July 30, 1934, "entered into a conspiracy, the object of which was to

STURDIVANT TRIAL DEMAND DEFEATED NEW ROAD WORK TO COST $700,000

Contracts for approximately $700,000 worth of highway improvement in the state, constructed entirely through federal aid, will be awarded September 12, it was announced Tuesday by W. E. Wilburn, chairman of the state highway board.

The main project to be awarded is the reconstruction of the Peters street viaduct in Atlanta at an estimated cost of between $250,000 and $300,000.

The first section of the proposed new highway leading from Atlanta to Marietta is listed among the projects, which will be graded, beginning at Marietta and extending southeast.

The list of projects follows:

Richmond—1,679 miles graded base and selected material surfacing. Beginning Route 4 and ending Wareboro road, connecting Route 4 and airport.

Pike—3,356 miles. Graded earth and selected material surfacing. Beginning Zebulon and extending west on state Route 18.

Miller—884 miles sand clay base and surface treatment. Beginning Colquitt and extending northwest.

Douglas—2,267 miles graded earth and selected material surfacing. Beginning south on Route 92.

Clayton—2,886 miles top soil case and surface treatment state Route 54 and extending westward 1.6 miles south of Jonesboro.

Towns—1,481 miles gravel-base surface-treated and repairs one bridge. State Route 69, beginning intersection Colquitt and extending northwest.

Talmadge Assumes Role of Cupid, Helps Combat High Cost of Loving

ASHBURN, Ga., Sept. 4.—Governor Talmadge assumed the role of Dan Cupid here today after he had been deeply moved by the love of G. M. Baker, 41-year-old Tift county farmer.

The governor was resting after his speech here at noon when Baker showed up at the home of a friend of the chief executive whose hospitality he had accepted for an hour or two.

Although told that the governor was resting, Baker insisted on seeing him and the governor got up.

"Can't you do something about the high cost of marriage licenses?" Baker asked the governor.

"I sure would like to," the governor replied. "What seems to be your trouble?"

"Well, it's like this," Baker lamented. "I had a girl and she promised to marry me. The license cost $4.50 and I did not have that much. She agreed to wait. I began paying for the license soon after the installment plan, a half-dollar or a quarter at the time. Finally, after I had got $4 deposited with the ordinary, my girl gave up waiting and married a fellow who was rich enough to have the entire $4.50 in cash. I lost out because the license fee was too high."

The governor sympathized with Baker and asked him what was done.

8 MILLS CLOSED AS STRIKE GRIPS ATLANTA VICINITY

Only Fulton Bag Operates as Walkout Depletes Ranks of Workers; No Violence Reported.

Eight of the nine cotton textile plants in the Atlanta metropolitan area had suspended operations Tuesday afternoon because of the general cotton mill strike. The only plant in operation was the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills, employing between 1,500 and 1,800 persons, where there had been no walkout; where no pickets were posted and where the mill ran just as in normal times.

Four of the remaining eight mills had until 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, though with much smaller forces than usual, the ranks of their workers having been depleted by failure of employees to come to work.

At 2 o'clock, however, when the second shift for the day was due to report there were not sufficient workers to keep the wheels turning and the mills closed. It is not known whether or not any of them will attempt to run today, although several executives said that their doors would be open again if their workers desired to enter and that the question was one for the men and women employees to decide.

Georgia mill owners Tuesday fought back at striking pickets by swearing out warrants where disorders occurred as an incomplete check of the state showed slightly more employees remaining on the job than were out on strike.

Reports from 76 of the state's 172 mills showed 22,955 employees working today with 20,440 either actively on strike or idle because their mills had shut down before the strike became effective. "Normally about 65,000 workers are employed in all mills in Georgia."

The disorders centered in the plants of the Bibb Manufacturing Co. at Macon and Porterdale and the Cedarport Cotton and Export Company at Cedarport.

At Macon fights broke out as the mills attempted to open after the Labor Day holiday. An automobile loaded with officers was ordered as it attempted to enter the mill but none was injured. Fourteen persons were arrested as a result of the disorders there and at other mills and officials were expected to ask that more warrants be taken out.

Seventeen arrests were made at the Porterdale mill as a result of an attempt by strikers to prevent a train from entering the plant. The strikers were driven off the tracks with a fire hose and the arrests charged interference with the officers using the force.

Clubs were wielded in the fight at the Cedarport plant and six women and two men were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct.

Charges were expected to ask that more warrants be taken out.

GEORGIA OWNERS ASK AID OF LAW IN RUNNING MILLS

Minor Disorders Center at Macon; Walkout Not Quite 50 Per Cent Effective in State.

WALKOUT GAINS GREATEST FORCE IN SOUTH'S MILLS

Union Leaders Insist Tie-Up Will Become Complete by End of Week as Between Third and Half of Workers Answer Call.

SLOAN PREDICTS EARLY COLLAPSE

Scattering Disorders Reported in South; Strikers Seek To Swell Ranks by Use of Flying Squadrons

By the Associated Press.

The United Textile Workers fell short, from all indications, of obtaining their hoped-for 50 per cent walk-out by nightfall Tuesday, but strike leaders said the number of employees answering the call was growing hourly.

The walkout, accompanied by sporadic disorders in southern mill towns, gained momentum as "flying squadrons" toured industrial centers, "incomplete" tabulations placed the number of workers out at approximately 200,000. The industry's total employment runs in the neighborhood of 500,000 to 600,000.

George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton-Textile Institute, said 254,000 or 346,000 cotton textile mill hands stayed on the job. He also predicted early collapse of the strike movement.

The strike, most was more effective in the south than in the New England area. Reports from the south late Tuesday night indicated an effectiveness of 40 per cent, which would estimate from the north placed the figure somewhere between 35 and 45 per cent.

Francis J. Goeman, vice president of the union and chairman of its strike committee, said workers would answer the call in vastly increased numbers. He estimated 300,000 would be out at all textile industries Tuesday night.

In most cities all was peaceful. Troops were ordered to two South Carolina communities; disturbances were of a minor nature.

The situation in various centers:

The Carolinas—Eighty thousand mill hands out; an estimated equal number remained at work. Disorders flared after unionists organized "flying squadrons" to tour mill towns. Their appeals brought out thousands. Sheriffs, deputies, armed with machine guns, moved to protect some mills. Troops ordered on duty in Greenville and Greer, S. C.

Alabama—Situation underwent little change as result of strike. Thirty mills closed, but 26 of these

Hitler Hailed as German Savior At Nurnberg's Historic 'Rathaus'

NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Amid the tolling of ancient bells and the chanting of many voices, Adolf Hitler made his entry into old Nurnberg's historic "rathaus" to-night.

The national socialist sixth party convention, its second since it came to power, was officially under way.

The bells atop venerable St. Sebaldus, St. Lorenz and other churches rang out for half an hour as Hitler made his way through dense throngs of streets toward the fourteenth century festival hall.

High above the deeper tones of the other bells sounded the silvery chiming of the "prayer bell" of 1591 in hoarse old St. Sebaldus.

For months, Nurnberg had been preparing for this occasion. Tonight its streets were riotous with flags, wreaths and bunting; Nazi faithful swelled its population to the bursting point; music, marching and celebration were everywhere.

Thousands of candles shed their subdued light over the high Nazi leaders, the members of Hitler's cabinet and state officials, all attired in full dress clothes or dress uniforms with decorations, as Hitler entered the city hall.

After choruses sang his praises, Burgo-master Liebel welcomed him to Nurnberg.

Dr. Fuehrer—the youthful party leader who holds virtually absolute power over Germany—was quick to respond in an impromptu address expressing gratitude for the presence of the hundreds of thousands of convention visitors.

LARK STEWART, 16, DIES AT HOME HERE

Lark Stewart, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stewart, died at the residence at 2050 House street Tuesday afternoon after an illness of several months.

In addition to his father, who is assistant city ticket agent of the Joint City Ticket office, and his mother, the youth is survived by a brother, Donald Stewart, also of Atlanta. Funeral services are to be conducted at 11 o'clock Thursday morning at the Oakhurst Baptist church, the Rev. A. B. Couch and the Rev. Claude H. Pritchard officiating. Burial will be in the East Lake cemetery, with A. S. Turner in charge.

MANGHAM TALKS OF POWER RATES

Pittman Supporter Says Cuts Resulted From Talmadge-Company Pact.

By the Associated Press.

J. J. Mangham, former chairman of the state highway board and now supporting Judge Claude Pittman for governor, charged in an address over radio station WSB Tuesday night that the reduction of power and light rates in Georgia was the result of an agreement between Governor Eugene Talmadge and the Georgia Power Company.

Mangham, formerly a close personal and political friend of Governor Talmadge, said the power company was willing to accept the rates because it knew the TVA intended cutting them anyhow. The reduction saved the power company from an increased tax assessment of $100,000,000 or more, he added.

"I believe I can tell you how the reduction in power and light rates came about," Mangham said. "The TVA was then functioning and the president of the power company knew that a reduction in rates was to follow. He knew how to make capital out of the situation with the governor so that the governor could play politics and take credit for the reduction that the president of the power company saw was sure to come."

There had also been some agitation about raising the rates of the utilities and the president of the power company doubtless had this in mind. It is my view that he himself approached the governor and suggested this reduction in rates in order that the governor might get credit for it when the power company president knew it was coming anyhow.

"It was arranged that the commission should have a hearing or pretend to have one and the rates which came about in Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi were fixed for Georgia or approximately those rates and there was also an understanding that no tax value was to be raised and the power company thus got off with exactly the rates it was going to put into effect anyhow and Talmadge was given credit for it and the power company saved an assessment of one hundred million dollars or more."

Mangham said he remembered waiting in Talmadge's office "more than two hours" one day last fall while the president of the Georgia Power Company was in conference with the governor.

Characterizing the governor's claim that he had saved $2,000,000 on the overhead of the highway department as "pure bunk," Mangham said the economies resulting from the reorganization of the department when he became chairman were estimated at $1,500,000.

"The governor knows it and knows that his talk of a $2,000,000 saving is just like all his other exaggerations," he added. Mangham declared that more than 300 employees have been added to the highway department's payroll during the past three months, including Frank Turner, chairman of the board of commissioners of Richmond county.

"Turner's employment cannot be for any other purpose than his political influence," Mangham continued. "I am reliably informed that Turner is paid by the state $300 per month and he is listed as an investigator."

Mangham said he did not "make good" as chairman of the highway board because he would not "yield to the governor's demands to do things of which my conscience would not approve. I did not make good according to the governor's standards. The only man that can make good with the governor is one who does what he tells him to do, right or wrong."

DEATH OF DAVIS MAY BRING CHANGE IN RACING COURSE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The death of Douglas Davis, of Atlanta, Ga., in the race for the Thompson speed trophy in the national air races here yesterday, may result in the lengthening of "suicide alley."

F. C. Crawford, president of the Thompson Products, Inc., donor of the trophy, said he will recommend enlargement of the triangular eight and one-half mile course over which Davis was hurtling when his racing plane crashed.

"I don't feel the length of the course had anything to do with the accident," Crawford said, "but I think a 15-mile course would be acceptable to all the pilots."

Colonel Roscoe Turner, winner of the race, said he believed the course should be lengthened to 10 or 15 miles. Jimmy Doolittle, the only other surviving winner of the speed classic, little more margin of safety.

Council's fast-thinning ranks of bachelors will be reduced by one today.

Alderman Robert Carpenter, sixth ward representative and the youngest member of the city governing body, at 8:30 o'clock tonight will marry Mrs. Helen Sullivan Fite. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. B. Frank Pim at the First Methodist church.

The bride will be given away by H. G. Lewis, and Miss Shirley Kinne will be the bridesmaid. A. F. Carpenter, Alderman Carpenter's brother, will be best man.

Carpenter, an attorney, also is manager of the Imperial hotel, where the couple will make their home after a honeymoon trip, the destination of which Carpenter declined to disclose.

Torture-Kidnaping of Sailor Laid to Alleged Smugglers

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The kidnaping of a French seaman by an international gang of smugglers and his torture during a month of captivity were disclosed by federal investigators today after 20 government agents, armed with submachine guns, had arrested two men and a woman.

The seaman, William Rosen, or Guillaume Rosen, identified one of the prisoners as the leader of the gang and the man in whose Brooklyn apartment he was held captive. He identified the man's wife as the woman who cooked for him during his imprisonment.

Investigators said Rosen, a seaman on the French liner Champlain, was abducted because he threw a package into the sea, believing it to contain potash. Instead, it held narcotics valued at $2,000.

The arrests were made in a raid early today on the apartment where Rosen said he was held captive. Those seized were identified as Salvatore Mancuso, 28; his wife, Nellie, 25, and Dominick Gelferno, 31, also of Brooklyn. Rosen was unable to identify Gelferno, agents said.

All were charged with kidnaping and conspiracy.

Rosen, 35, short and slightly built, appeared at police headquarters with his wrists bruised by the ropes with which he had been tied day and night and his forehead scarred by lighted cigarettes with which his captors had seared him.

Kidnaped on August 2, he was released yesterday. Federal men said they believed the gang had become fearful of detection.

Rosen told the investigators he found the package concealed in a ventilator while the Champlain was on its way to New York. After the liner docked, he said, a man met him and told him a friend wanted to see him. Rosen got into the stranger's automobile and was carried off.

He was told that if he had thrown the narcotics overboard he would be killed, he said, so he told the kidnapers he had sold them.

The gang forced him to cable his wife in Havre in an effort to raise the 40,000 francs, he said.

These cables and others which Mancuso received proved the undoing of the abductors, agents said.

Mancuso had been arrested on August 5 after a chase in which narcotic agents fired shots. It was alleged he had sold narcotics for $1,500 in a street corner deal. Cablegrams were in his pocket at that time and Mancuso refused to talk until they were destroyed, the officers said.

The cablegrams were torn up and the pieces thrown out a window, only to be collected by other agents outside the building.

A check was kept on cablegrams to

Fair, Cool Weather Forecast for Today

Fair and cooler weather today, with temperature extremes near 60 and 78 degrees, was forecast by the weather bureau Tuesday.

Tuesday's range of temperature was 67 to 79, the high being checked by light showers early in the afternoon. A rainfall of .06 of an inch was registered.

Father Says Daughter Refuses Support

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Sept. 4.—(AP) Miss Josephine Litch, debutante daughter of Thomas K. Litch, scion of one of this community's oldest and wealthiest families, was arrested today upon her father's complaint that she was living on $1.50 weekly from a relief agency because she would not support him.

The father, 48 years old, specifically charged his daughter with desertion and non-support.

Investigators said he collapsed on the street from hunger a few days ago and was treated in a hospital.

Heir to a big fortune, Litch some years ago established a trust fund for his wife and daughter.

He now charges his daughter refused to aid him, forcing him to go on the relief rolls while his funds and estate were being squandered by her.

Under the trust fund Litch says his daughter was to receive $100 a month.

MURPHY REMOVES TVA POWER ISSUE

Drive Deferred Until After Primary; City, County
Candidates Speak.

Alderman J. Charles Murphy, mayoral candidate and proponent of TVA power for Atlanta, Thursday definitely removed the power issue from his political campaign, but asserted he would continue to fight for it whether he is elected or defeated and "either as a city official or a private citizen."

Murphy delivered an address at a meeting held at the Kirkwood school in his drive for nomination as candidate for his political campaign, but asserted he would continue to fight for it whether he is elected or defeated and "either as a city official or a private citizen."

"It has been charged that I have raised the TVA issue for political purposes," Murphy said. "I consider TVA power of more importance than anybody's political fortunes or the election of any mayor."

"It is my earnest desire that TVA power be secured for Atlanta, and since the political issue has been injected into it, I will not permit confusion to arise. I have therefore concluded to defer all steps in so far as I am concerned, as a member of the general council of the city of Atlanta, until after the determination of the mayor's race."

"At that time, however, I intend to prosecute vigorously the campaign which has been begun to secure the benefits of cheap power for Atlanta, and I intend to do this whether I am elected or defeated, either as a city official or as a private individual."

Backs Civil Service Bill.

Alderman G. Everett Millican, opposing Senator Walter A. Sims, of the 35th district, speaking at a meeting at the Adair school, told the audience that he would sponsor a civil service bill "which will bring civil service to employees, but I opposed a so-called civil service bill offered at the last session of the legislature because it protected only a very few white collar men and none of the others employed by the city."

He also asserted he would seek a law to make it a felony to grow or distribute marijuana, a weed from which cigarettes containing a narcotic are made. He again accused Sims of slander, but "excused him because that is the only type of race he knows how to run."

Sims attacked Millican's civil service "record" at a meeting at Faith's Crossing.

"Mr. Millican now claims he will favor civil service, when his record clearly shows he opposes it," Sims contended. "Election of Millican means a bigger and better Gulf Refining Company. My election means a bigger and better Georgia Power Company."

Key Meeting Planned.

Second ward friends of Mayor James L. Key, who is seeking re-election, will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the home of Mrs. Helen Vocalis, 216 Georgia avenue, S. W. The mayor will attend.

Key Tuesday received notice that Atlanta Local No. 41 International Association of Theatrical Stage Employees and Motion Picture Machine Operators, has endorsed him for re-nomination.

G. Seals Aiken, opposing Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, spoke Tuesday night at College Park and will speak again to-night at the Grant park pavilion. William G. McRae, legislative candidate, will speak at the Harris school at 8 o'clock tonight.

J. V. Poole, third entrant in that race for Judge Humphries' post, said Tuesday night:

"The judge is in favor of grand jury investigations being interfered with and stopped by judges and the jurors reprimanded and rebuked by the presiding judge in open court."

"If Judge Humphries' ideas are correct our grand jury system may as well be abolished and the county affairs turned over to the judges."

Drive Is Promised
On Lawyer-Criminals

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings today predicted "a lot of others" would be seized in the government's drive to punish professional men who have come to the aid of criminals.

He lauded the federal agents who corralled an attorney, two surgeons and four other persons on charges of harboring John Dillinger and Homer Van Meter last week.

"That's good work," the attorney-general declared. "More than a year ago we started a campaign that now has resulted in the arrest of several such people as Attorney Piquette and his associates. We are determined to continue this campaign and get at the underlying causes of crime. We will seize all those who profit by crime."

Missing Girl, 13,
Returns to Home

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Wanda Cardinet, 13, missing daughter of a wealthy candy manufacturer, returned to her home tonight, definitely dispelling fears she had been kidnapped.

The girl told her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cardinet, she had left home because of a quarrel with her sister. A candy manufacturer previously had been abandoned when officers learned Wanda had spent the night at a downtown Oakland hotel and had left two finger rings as security for the bill incurred.

SCION OF WEALTHY FAMILY
MISSING IN MASSACHUSETTS

FALMOUTH, Mass., Sept. 4.—(AP) Mystery today surrounded the disappearance last night of George Comstock, 22, scion of a wealthy Providence family, whose abandoned car was found half a mile outside of Coquit about 11 o'clock. A coat and hat found in the car were said to belong to Comstock.

Friends fear that Comstock might have been the victim of kidnapers.

Talmadge Gets Check
For 1928 Auto License

Governor Talmadge Tuesday received a letter from a resident of Buckhead enclosing $11.25 to pay for his 1928 automobile license tag.

The letter said the writer drove his car throughout 1928 with a 1928 tag. His conscience has been hurting him since and he finally decided to pay his fee just six years late.

HENRY SHARP PASSES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

59-Year-Old Atlantan Was President of City Investment Company.

Henry Sharp, well-known Atlanta businessman, died Tuesday night at his residence at 235 Rawson street. He was 59 years of age and had been ill for some time.

He was president of the City Investment Company, which he organized in 1910 and had headed ever since.

The son of a district manager of the Singer Sewing Machine Company here for years, Mr. Sharp came to Atlanta as a boy of 12 and attended the public schools before entering Georgia Tech, where he was graduated.

He is survived by a sister, Miss Annie Sharp; an aunt, Mrs. R. D. Cheney, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; and two cousins, Mrs. James Cash, of Chattanooga, and Dr. H. S. Cheney, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

PLEA FOR TROOPS IS TURNED DOWN

Talmadge Flatly Rejects Appeal From Trion in "Hands-Off" Policy.

ALBANY, Ga., Sept. 4.—Governor Talmadge let it be known today that only in a direct emergency and only after the situation got completely beyond control of local authorities would he entertain any request for national guardsmen to take any part in the present textile strike.

Flatly rejecting an appeal that he send troops to Trion, Ga., where mill operators and F. A. Justice, chairman of the board of county commissioners of Chattooga county, had requested that national guardsmen be sent to protect workers who desired to enter Trion plants while getting by strike pickets the governor made it clear that he feels local authorities have ample legal means to handle almost any situation which may arise.

The governor made known his position in the following telegram to Commissioner Justice and N. B. Murphy, mayor of Trion, who is a vice president of the Trion mills: "The sheriff is authorized to swear in as many citizens as deputies over 21 years old as he deems necessary. I think the local authorities can handle any situation which may arise."

The governor would make no further comment for publication but it was clear that he does not intend to use the troops to aid any side of the strike situation.

The governor's friends, of course, know that an order calling out troops would not be considered a good thing now, especially during the campaign.

The telegrams from Mr. Justice and Mayor Murphy did not give any report of violence. Both merely asserting that the Trion company's 2,000 employees desired to return to their work but were prevented from doing so by union pickets about mill plants. The telegrams said that the employees had said they did not wish to strike and were willing to return to work any time they could.

The governor sent a copy of his telegrams to the Trion and Chattooga county authorities to Carlton Mobley, his executive secretary, in Atlanta, and directed him to keep in touch with the strike situation and keep him advised of the conditions if there is any change.

Women and Men Picket Atlanta Mills

Atlanta textile strikers gathered at the entrances to local cotton mills as pickets where they try, by argument, to dissuade other workers from entering the mill to go to work. of rioting with officers looking for others alleged to have taken part in the battle.

Guard Refused.

N. B. Murphy, mayor of Trion and vice president of the Trion mills, telegraphed Governor Talmadge asking him to send the national guard into the county but the governor replied the sheriff should be able to take care of the situation.

Murphy said 2,000 workers of his company and 1,300 at the Summerville plant wanted to operate but that strikers and pickets from other sections prevented the Summerville mill from operating and he understood they would picket the Trion mill tomorrow. He asked protection for the workers.

Talmadge replied: "The sheriff of your county has authority to deputize as many citizens over 21 years old as he deems necessary to maintain order. Please inform him of your situation. I am sure he can take care of it."

Some Closed.

The number of active strikers could not be accurately estimated since many of the mills closed for "indefinite periods" when the strike was threatened and numbers of the 20,440 listed as out of work included those employed in self-closed plants.

Thirty-five of 70 mills reporting were closed either by the strikers or by the management, 31 were reported running on a full-time basis and 30 were partially operating.

The strike apparently was most effective in Macon and Columbus. At the latter place, the largest textile center of the state, operations were practically at a standstill. No disorders were reported from Columbus as most of the mills that attempted to operate shut down when they found they had insufficient forces.

Most Augusta mills were attempting to operate with varying figures given by the management and the union leaders. Half of the plants in Atlanta were closed with those open employing the majority of the workers.

As fists flew and heads were cracked in Macon a group of workers who were not in sympathy with the strike met in the community house and knelt in prayer before going out to shove their way through the picket lines.

Situation by Towns.

The situation by towns:
Macon—Largest mills attempting to operate in face of fights and general disorders. No estimate of workers.
Columbus—Mills closed. Over 5,000 workers idle.
Atlanta—Five mills closed, five open; 2,500 working, 1,750 on strike.
Cedartown—Two operating, one partially; 1,100 working, 200 on strike.
Augusta—Most mills operating. Estimates of workers vary. Numbers out on strike.
Carrollton—Mill operating, 500 employed.
Barnesville—Mill operating.
Gainesville—Three mills running; 200 employed.
Thomasboro—All mills operating; 4,000 employed.
Valdosta—Mill operating; 175 employed.
Porterdale—Mill operating, normally employs 1,800. Number working not established.
Greensboro—Mills closed; 300 out.
Union Point—Mills closed; 500 out.
Cornington—Mills closed; 300 normally employed.
Athens—Mills running; 400 employed.
Whitehall—One open, one closed (not account strike), 200 employed, 100 out.
Princeton—Running, 100 workers.
LaGrange—Eight mills closed, 5,500 out.
West Point—Mill open, West Point to report at the mill at that hour to prevent any disorder. It was stated that no trouble is anticipated but that the police are being sent as a precautionary measure.

At the Whittier Mills, at Bolton, there was no operation on Tuesday. R. K. Whittier, an official of the company, said the doors of the mill would be open every morning at the usual hour, at 6:45, and would remain open until 6 o'clock. Any who want to work can have their jobs, he added, saying it was entirely up to the workers to decide for themselves.

There, as at the Exposition Mills, pickets surrounded the mill property but there was no disorder.

40 Enter Scottdale Mill.

At the Scottdale Mills, in DeKalb county, about two score of the normal force of 400 entered the mill for work Tuesday morning. They passed through the picket lines to reach the mill but no effort was made to stop them by force.

This mill ran with a curtailed force until 2 o'clock when it suspended operations, as the second shift did not report.

Similar conditions were found at the Piedmont Mills and the Martel Mill at Egan, just outside East Point. A depleted force kept part of both these mills running until 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when they stopped running for lack of a second shift to take over.

The Gate City Mills did not operate all day, some reports stating that only three reported for work in the morning, while others said more than a dozen were ready for work. The reported force, in any event, was insufficient to operate the entire plant and there, as at Exposition and Whittier, the management thought it wiser not to attempt any operations.

The Egan Mill, a small establishment near College Park, ran for part of the day but closed down when two-thirds of its force decided to join the strikers.

The Georgia Duck and Cordage Mills, located at Scottdale and normally employing about 100, did not operate Tuesday.

Owners Voice Surprise.
Mill owners generally voiced their surprise that Atlanta employees would walk out, having believed that they were generally well content. They find consolation, however, in the belief that the walk outs are merely in response to a general strike call for the industry, rather than being based upon local conditions.

Mayor James L. Key on Tuesday offered his services to both sides in the local strike situation as arbitrator. He explained he had no plan of settlement to offer but was ready to aid in any way to bring the industrial differences to an end.

At the Atlanta Woollen Mills, which employs approximately 450 people, there was no evidence of a strike, although the woollen workers voted nationally to join in the textile strike. The local plant reported operations as usual Tuesday, with a full force of workers and no signs of picketing or other strike activity.

Strikers in the various mill vicinities held meetings Tuesday afternoon and night, at which time plans for future picketing of the mills were discussed, as well as ways and means of relief should any of their people face hunger or lack of shelter on account of the strike.

Another call for police help from a near-by city was reported at police headquarters Tuesday afternoon, when the chief of police at Cedartown requested that six officers armed with tear gas bombs be sent there at 8 o'clock because of feared strike disorders. The request was turned over to supernumerary policemen, as it is against the policy of the city to send Atlanta policemen beyond the city limits.

Three supernumerary policemen on Tuesday indicated to O. H. Pendley, secretary of police, that they would leave of absence in order to respond to a call for help from Porterdale, Ga., while six former policemen, recently discharged from the local force, left the city early Tuesday morning in response to a similar call from authorities at Rockmart.

W. A. VERNON HEADS TALMADGE WARD CLUB

W. A. Vernon was elected chairman of the Third Ward Talmadge Club which was organized Tuesday night at the home of S. A. Rudder, 637 Cherokee avenue.

Other officers are Ray Rivers, vice chairman, and L. F. Packer, secretary. More than 20 persons attended the meeting. It was announced that another meeting will be held later in the week.

had been shut since statewide strike call of July 17. Workers out estimated at around 15,000 with 23,000 staying on job.

Georgia—Sporadic disorders, 20-440 workers out; approximately 22,000 stay on job.

Virginia—Strike call unheeded. Estimated 100,000 workers, about 38,000 idle.

New Jersey—Vast Paterson silk mills operated as usual. Question of existing contract up to local NRA industrial relations board; when it decides 40 per cent of nation's silk workers are on strike, contracted workers can answer call. All was peaceful. Only 800 out. If 40 per cent figure is reached, union leaders estimated 20,000 more silk workers would walk out.

New York—Only upstate affected; of some 9,100 workers, approximately 3,000 out.

Connecticut—Union employed "flying squadrons." Leaders said many locals had arranged to walk out later in week. Of 32,600 workers, an estimated 7,000 were out.

Rhode Island—United Textile workers met opposition of strong independents. About 4,000 answered call, some 46,000 remained on job.

Massachusetts—Threat of garment workers' strike intensified situation. As in Rhode Island, independent unionists stayed on job. Some 26,000 out of 116,000 workers answer strike call.

New Hampshire—Large Amoskeag mills shut down; strike estimated 70 per cent effective. Close to 18,000 workers out with approximately 6,000 at work.

Maine—Little stir. Of normally employed 22,300 only 1,000 or so answered call.

STRIKE NOT EXPECTED TO REACH LABOR'S GOAL
WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The greatest textile strike yet to afflict the nation gained rapid momentum tonight by apparently failing to reach the goal set by labor—a 50 per cent tie-up before midnight.

Increasing scenes of violence marked the walkout. Tension grew in many sections as "flying squadrons" of union pickets made spectacular dashes in an effort to close mills still operating.

National guardsmen were on duty in South Carolina. Armed guards patrolled mills in other states. Fists flew and taunts were hurled as non-union workers sought to push through picket lines into widely separated mills.

An Associated Press tabulation placed the number on strike during the afternoon at 213,305, out of 533,200 normally employed in the three main sections of the industry—cotton, silk and wool.

Pleased With Situation.
Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the union's strike committee, asserted the number was "easily 300,000" and declared the strike "has exceeded our expectations."

George A. Sloan, chairman of the Cotton Textile Institute, and Peter Van Horn, chairman of the silk code authority, said today's response stamped the walkout as a failure.

"What the test has disclosed thus far—above all other things," said Sloan, "is that a great majority of the workers in the cotton industry are not in sympathy with the strike and are not desirous of their places."

Another division of the industry, the silk throwers, numbering 25,000, mostly in Pennsylvania, were ordered out tomorrow.

Meanwhile, reports were received at strike headquarters that overtures already had been made toward settlement by the Cleveland Cloth mill at Shelby, N. C., one of the largest in the south. Gorman indicated the strike committee would not oppose an individual agreement, provided the union demands were met.

Picket Lines Broken.
From Fayetteville, N. C., came reports that police had broken picket lines, and that the Hopewell plant a company union, heavily armed, had been placed on guard with orders to shoot to kill. Gorman angrily sent a telegram to Governor E. B. Rouse, asking protection for the strikers.

The strike was most effective in the south, with great textile centers completely shut down. New England was less affected, but the industry was idle in two huge centers, Manchester, N. H., and New Bedford, Massachusetts.

KNOW

"It's going over with a bang," he shouted as he slapped Emil Rieve, another member of the committee.

To reporters he said:

"The number of mills easily 300,000. By tomorrow morning thousands more will be on strike. We repeatedly estimated a 50 per cent walkout the day the strike was called. Our estimate has been surpassed."

See Mills Closed.

John Redmond, an A. F. of L. organizer at Charlotte, N. C., sent word that "there won't be a mill open below the Mason-Dixon line by Saturday."

Gorman today wrote Harry Hopkins, relief administrator, to deny that the union based its strike on any assurance that strikers would be fed with federal funds.

"I have sought as best I could to correct these reports," he wrote.

These misleading reports have been as embarrassing to us as they must have been to you. . . . Our organization has had many strikes, so have all other organizations of labor. We have conducted strikes in the past, and we have managed somehow to take care of our people so that they might carry on the struggle.

"I am perfectly sure that many of the reports to the effect that we formed some advanced determination to rely on federal emergency relief were meant to be embarrassing, but it seems to me proper that I should write you at this time to clear the air and remove any misapprehension that might exist."

The policy of the relief administration is that it underwrites no strikes but authorizes local relief agencies to give aid to strikers on a basis of individual need, unless the labor department finds the strike unjustified.

This principle has been attacked by Henry I. Harman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; the Illinois Manufacturers' Association and other employer groups.

From the national labor relations board came no word of prospective peace moves, but Chairman Lloyd Garrison watched the situation closely. Gorman reiterated today the union was ready to confer with the board or anyone else at any time.

Like a field marshal gauging the swing of a battle, Gorman thrust points into a huge map of the United States to denote the points where workers had left their posts. The eastern seaboard was studied, while away off in the upper left-hand corner two tiny specks recorded small walkouts in Washington and Oregon.

Orders Flashed.
Gorman's pick sticking was constantly interrupted by orders to lieutenants in the field. The union strategy, he explained, is to complete

STRIKERS INVADE TOWNS

TO CLOSE CAROLINA MILLS
CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 4.—(AP) Violence flared today and more was threatened as adherents of the United Textile Workers of America sought to extend the general strike into every southern cotton mill.

Carolina leaders, their battle to close every mill half won, showed the way as automobile convoys of strikers roared through the countryside, shutting down mill after mill through persuasion or weight of numbers.

Eighty thousand of the approximately 160,000 workers in the two states watched the battle or turned themselves to aid organized pickets. Approximately 250 cotton textile and silk mills were closed, with a similar number operating.

Reports from Birmingham and other Alabama mill centers said a third of that state's active workers were now idle. Fifteen thousand were reported out. The state's estimated cotton textile employment is about 40,000.

From Knoxville, Tenn., came reports of thin picket lines and no disorders. So far as could be learned, Peaceful Action.

In most cases the appearance of the Carolina "flying squadrons" was peaceful, but in the Gastonia area doors were broken open at some mills, power shut off and machines unbolted as workers were ordered from their frames.

The "flying squadrons" ranged in number from 200 to 1,000 men. Many mills closed only after an approach "until further notice." Many workers walked out at the persuasion of squadron leaders, and some of them joined the squadrons. Strike leaders predicted one large squadron, operating in the Gastonia area, would number 4,000 by night, and said the squadrons would be sufficiently organized by tomorrow to allow force-outs in plants of the giant Cannon and Springs manufacturing chains.

These chains, largely employing non-union operatives, have continued to run almost without molestation since the walkouts started yesterday morning. One small Cannon unit at Salisbury was closed, along with all other mills in that center. The Cannon chain, with all of its units save one in North Carolina, employs approximately 15,000 persons. The Springs group in South Carolina employs about 10,000. Strike leaders were planning to avoid show-down attempts with these large organizations until smaller "sore spots"—to them—could be cleaned up.

"Squadrons" Close 100 Mills.
Closing of approximately 100 mills today was laid to the "flying squadrons" activities.

After one incident, when the crowd crashed the doors of the Ragan Spinning Company near Gastonia to pull switches and throw belts, leaders told Caldwell Ragan, the mill's treasurer, that the group had gotten out of control. Many youths were in the groups, and authorities feared additional and more serious outbreaks to-night.

An Associated Press survey showed 53,065 workers out of closed mills in 22 North Carolina towns, with 27,619 out in South Carolina, where many of the state's 180 mills comprise their own communities.

No. 1 in a Davison series depicting fashion's return-to-grandeur

After the past mad years when women followed false idols in the name of economy, it is an exhilarating experience to find a suit like this. It is a good omen of returning grandeur, a portent of better times. Of black bark wool with deep, raised ribs and a tight frosting of silver. With a skirt, a separate topcoat and a dressmaker jacket plastroned with grey kid. It's a thoroughbred, through and through. It's the sort of "quality" that's mixed up in our minds with memories of violets on muffs, baby Irish lace on voluminous muslin petticoats, and Colonel Lowry's tallyho spanking down Peachtree. You can wear it in the three ways shown above. You can wear it with a proud lift of your head and an Imperatrice Elizabeth assurance. From the Little Shop, Third Floor, $115.

COURT ORDER BLOCKS ALABAMA POWER SALE

TVA Must Return Properties To Await 30-Day Notice on Deal

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Judge Leon McCord, of Montgomery circuit court, today directed the Alabama public service commission to cancel its order approving the sale of property in 14 north Alabama municipalities by the Alabama Power Company to the Tennessee Valley Authority and to give proper notice of 30 days before the case is reopened before the commission.

Judge McCord declared that the commission had failed to give proper notice before holding the hearing out of which resulted the order approving the $1,000,000 sale of transmission lines and the Joe Wheeler dam site by the power company to the TVA.

"An eagerness is expressed on every side for a quick decision, to the end that certain municipalities may make contracts with the Tennessee Valley Authority," Judge McCord stated, "there is an invitation in this hour to cast rules and precedents aside, to ride down the plain mandates of the law. . . . However much may be our personal desires and wishes in this regard, we must calmly follow the beaten path."

Although the motion before the court was for a stay of the transfer of the property pending settlement of the case in court, Judge McCord said that there was no need to hold the matter open for a ruling on its merits since he was convinced the commission acted without jurisdiction in holding the hearing without giving the 30-day notice prescribed by law.

TROLLEY, BUS STRIKE IS CALLED IN TOKYO

TOKYO, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The Transport Workers Union called a strike today of 11,000 workers of Tokyo's municipal tram car and bus system, to take effect tomorrow morning.

The strike is to be a protest against the reorganization of the city's transport services which would involve numerous discharges and drastic pay cuts.

Old Folks Like This Laxative

Because of weakened digestive organs, old people need a thorough laxative, but a gentle one. Delicious Fenna-mint, the chewing gum laxative distributes the laxative ingredient by chewing, uniformly into the system, thus giving a "full" complete action that is more natural—and gentle. Doctors regularly prescribe the laxative ingredient in delicious Fenna-mint. Delay is dangerous, so today safely get better on schedule and stay there. Chew non-habit forming Fenna-mint for constipation.

SIR BASIL ZAHAROFF.

WAR PROBE BARES SUBMARINE TRUST

But contracts were placed before the committee which disclosed there were few governments in the world which receive a submarine without a large share of the profit from the building going either to the American concern or the British munitions firm.

A hint that Zaharoff might have used bribery some of the money obtained from the Electric Boat Company provided one startling point in the first hearings held by the committee.

Bribery Hinted.

A letter was put into the record in which Zaharoff informed company officials from Paris in 1925 that he had received money "with which I am doing the need."

Senator Clark, democrat, Missouri, a committee member, asked Carse what was meant by doing "the needful."

Carse expressed ignorance on that point, saying Zaharoff did not explain his business to the Electric Boat Company.

Senator Bone, democrat, Washington, and other committee members immediately intimated, however, that Zaharoff used the money for bribery.

During the day three witnesses, all officers of Electric Boat, ranged in seniority before the committee. Quietly they told of arrangements for building submarines which may well be news even to some of the government's vitally interested.

Warned.

A letter dated July 30, 1932, from Sir Charles Craven, official of Vickers, to L. Y. Spear, vice president of Electric Boat, apparently warned the American firm to be careful lest the British admiralty learn of a profit-sharing arrangement between Electric and Vickers.

Outside of payments to a Paris representative of the Electric Boat Company, Carse and Spear told Senator Nye they recalled no other commissions to representatives abroad. This was just before the introduction of data which showed that Zaharoff got three-quarters of a million dollars.

"Oh, yes," Carse said when he saw the documents, "we did pay Sir Basil."

He explained this was the result of an intricate arrangement but the sum and substance of the matter was that Sir Basil got the Spanish business for the Electric Boat Company, and held it in the face of "very keen competition."

"Who is Sir Basil Zaharoff?" asked Senator Barbour, republican, New Jersey.

Mystery Man.

"He is called the mystery man of Europe," Carse responded quietly. "He is a very big man. There are all sorts of stories about his youth. Fables for the most part, I think. He is a Greek by birth, I believe, and is also a Knight of the Garter of Great Britain."

"Doesn't he claim to be French also?" inquired Senator Clark.

"I don't think so," Carse replied. "He spends some time in Paris and at Monte Carlo. He is a Spanish duke also, I know. There have been a lot of slurring references to him but he is able, brilliant. I met him in 1924 and I regard him as one of the greatest men I have ever known."

President's Confidence.

"I think you will find if you investigate that in 1919 the president of the United States gave him his confidence."

"I am surprised at that," commented Nye. "I was just going to remark that the United States was about the only country that had not decorated him."

Shortly thereafter it was shown that Sir Basil in 1925 had indirectly appealed to the American state department to prevent German manufacturers from capturing Spanish shipbuilding contracts then held by Vickers and Electric Boat.

A letter was introduced in which Zaharoff wrote to company officials.

"The United States ambassador in Spain (Alexander P. Moore) is a very clever gentleman, and highly esteemed, and I think that you should arrange for instructions to be sent to him from your state department, for him to tell the Spaniards that the United States government works very harmoniously with the Electric Boat Company, with whom they exchange ideas and that the United States hopes that the Spanish government is satisfied with the guarantee of the Electric Boat Company combined with that of Vickers, and will not see any necessity of any other guarantee."

Britons Difficult.

In 1924 an understanding was reached whereby the English concern got exclusive rights to supply the British empire with submarines.

The division of territory excluded Spain, Japan, France, Italy, Brazil, Peru, Belgium, the Argentine, Finland, Norway and a couple of other countries.

Carse explained the Electric Boat Company had leased its patents to firms in those countries to build submarines.

"I don't think a submarine can be built without infringing on some of our basic patents," he said.

Royalties.

The Electric company's business with the United States navy, Argentine and Peru in the period from 1919 to 1934 totaled $26,722,153. Exhibits showing royalties from concerns in other countries which had leased patents also were put into the record.

Carse said frankly that he felt the German government had violated patents held by his company in building the submarines which almost won the war for the central powers. He said they obtained the designs from an Austrian concern with which Electric had a working agreement before the war.

The president of Electric testified he put in a claim after the war for about $17,000 by the mixed claims commission.

Several of the letters from Craven, identified as one of Vickers' principal officials, to Spear and Carse were marked "strictly private."

In one, dated July 30, 1932, Craven wrote:

"May I suggest that even in code it is better not to mention any names of ships as I am rather afraid that such telegrams might get into the hands of our clients and it would be awkward if they asked me about my agreement with you. I am sure you will appreciate what I mean."

Spear said the implication that the British government did not know that Electric was sharing in Vickers' profits on submarines might be justified from the language of the letter.

"I told the American navy about the arrangement," he said.

GEORGE HAS ACTIVE ROLE IN MUNITIONS INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, who arrived in Washington early this morning from his home at Sea Island, today took his place next to Senator Gerald F. Nye, of North Dakota, as a member of the select committee of the senate which is investigating the munitions industry.

Interviewed after the morning session of the committee, Senator George said that he was prepared to remain in Washington until the hearings had been completed. He explained that he had been quietly residing at his Sea Island cottage since the seventy-third congress adjourned last June, but had managed to take care of important official business which had been relayed to him from his capital office.

The senator would not discuss the gubernatorial primary contest now being waged in his state and intimated that he had not interested himself in purely political matters since adjournment of congress.

Sitting with Senator George on the munitions committee are Chairman Nye and Senators Clark, of Missouri; Bone, of Washington; Pope, of Idaho, and Barbour, of New Jersey. Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, the one remaining member will be absent from Washington until later in the week on account of previous engagements made in his state.

Other Duelling Pistol Of Brown Loaded

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 4.—(AP) Howard Nutt, head of the police research laboratory, announced tonight he had found a "charge of powder in the mate of the ancient duelling pistol which late Sunday cut short the spectacular career of Russ Columbo, actor-singer-orchestra leader.

The mate, a replica of the pistol which was accidentally discharged in the hands of Lausung V. Brown Jr., portrait photographer and old friend of the singer, was taken from Brown's home for examination by police.

Nutt said the barrel contained no leaden ball.

The powder would readily ignite, Nutt asserted, if the hammer of the pistol was snapped down on the head of a match, such as occurred Sunday afternoon in Brown's home.

Nutt corroborated the opinion expressed by Brown that the pistols may have been loaded many years ago with black powder.

Brown said he purchased the weapons about seven years ago from an antique dealer.

Princess Maria, of Italy, became known. It was considered her hardly likely that the royal family and Premier Benito Mussolini would have consented to the marriage had they not strong faith in the improvement of Otto's present position.

ANN STEPS OUT

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

WHAT WAS GONE BEFORE: Although Ann Dryden has been in New York since childhood days in Baltimore, she tells him that he must go away from her. She has never really noticed him until Nick speaks to her. When John's secretary's health forces her to go away, he turns her work over to Ann, John's sister. Ann is surprised when she finds out that John is in love with her. She has been in love with him since she was a child. She has been in love with him since she was a child. She has been in love with him since she was a child.

breakfast at 9:30 the postman came. There was a letter in Jean's gingham dress. Standing in the vestibule, with the rain beating in, Ann tore it open.

"Dear Ann:— You've won—all of you. I've worn my soles thin and haven't got a job. I got one singing in a cheap night club but after one night I knew I couldn't stand it. The men were fresh."

"Ann, I haven't any money. Won't you come up and get me? I'm beaten and I'm ready to come home."

"Between the lines Ann read much more misery and despair than Jean had actually written. Mrs. Dryden came in the hall."

"Did you?"

Ann gave her mother the letter and there was a tense silence while she read it. Their eyes met.

"You'll go?"

"Yes, at once."

Ann turned, went upstairs and got her suitcase from the closet. It was strange, she thought, that in moments like these people were very quiet. Her mother wept at the slightest upsetting incident but in a matter of this kind, when her child was involved, she had said nothing and was very quiet. "You'll go?" was all she had said in a hushed, tense voice.

As Ann was packing, her mother came in the room.

"I called your father," and then, "But where are you going to get the money, Ann?"

"I have the money."

"But where did you get it?"

Ann straightened up and faced her mother squarely. Should she tell her about John's generous check? Would she understand?

"Mr. Hamill gave me a check to cover my expenses."

"Mr. Hamill?"

Ann's heart hurt. Were dissension and lack of understanding to meet her wherever she turned?

"Yes," she told him about Jean. He wanted to help me.

Tears came in her mother's eyes. "But... I never thought you'd accept money from a man."

"Accept money from a man? Is that what you think? Do you think I've degenerated that much? It was a loan. I'm going to pay him back. I didn't ask him for it."

"But men—rich men—don't give money like that for nothing!"

"John Hamill does."

"John Hamill?"

Ann shook her head. "I never thought of this? One in New York, scared and hungry, and one here accepting money from a man?"

Desperately Ann turned her head and looked out of the window, at the rain beating on the pane. "You're wrong about John Hamill," she said slowly. "He wants to marry me."

Mrs. Dryden took a step nearer. "I'm sorry for reproaching you. I'm old-fashioned, I guess. And I've been so upset about Jean. You've always been a good girl, Ann. She smiled faintly. "I don't know how we would have gotten along without your help—you were always so willing to give up your salary."

Ann continued with the packing. "I don't want you to marry for money," said her mother. "Too many marriages of that kind end in divorce. I want my girls to be happy."

Mrs. Dryden went downstairs. Ann took off her woolen dressing gown and put on a dark traveling dress. Carefully she wrote Jean's address and Nick's on a slip of paper and put it in her pocketbook along with John's money. She wrote a hurried letter to John and sent it to his girlfriend home. She came downstairs with her black suitcase in her hand. Her mother came out of the kitchen and kissed her.

"Wire me as soon as you've found her," she said. "I won't rest until I hear."

Ann went out and Mrs. Dryden stood at the front window and watched her walk up the street in the rain. She always experienced a feeling of pride when she saw Anna. She thought, "She's my daughter and she's unaware of her beauty and charm. She's an unusual girl and she doesn't know it. She should have all the things I haven't been able to get her. John Hamill can give them to her."

It was long impatient ride. At Jersey City Ann got off the train and took a bus over the ferry. New York's skyline looked immense and spectacular—like a bouquet with too many flowers. It was still raining, though not so hard. At Columbus circle she alighted from the bus and hailed a cab.

She knew little about New York, but she knew as the cab edged its way through the hurrying traffic to a narrow street that she was in the poor section of the city. The cab finally drew up alongside a gray, dingy-looking house.

Ann got out, paid the driver, and looked for a moment at the house. It had a sign in the window, "Furnished Rooms." And a woman, fat, untidy with dark hair hanging over her face, sat near the window dressed in a gingham dress. A girl, cheaply dressed and flashily made up, came out of the house and put up an umbrella.

So Jean's dreams had brought her to this! How many pretty girls thought that beauty was in demand when there was such an oversupply! Ann rang the bell. The fat slovenly woman sitting in the window leaned over and looked at her. Presently a face stuck itself halfway through the partly opened door.

"I'm looking for Miss Jean Dryden," said Ann.

The door opened all the way. The girl, wiping her soapy, red hands on a kitchen apron, glared stupidly.

"Who?"

"Miss Jean Dryden. I'm her sister."

"There ain't nobody here by that name."

Jean—not here? Where would she turn if she couldn't find her here?

The fat woman came out of the living room. "Who do you want?" she asked in an irritated voice.

"Jean Dryden."

The woman's mouth drew up at the corners cynically. "She didn't give that name here. None of 'em do. They got fancy names." She turned to the servant in a voice that made red curls tremble. "It's the kid on the top floor—the little one. Take her up, Annie, and be quick about it."

She turned to Ann. "It's a good thing you came."

"I was 'ja' gettin' ready to turn her out. This ain't no flophouse."

Ann followed the girl up three flights of dark, unlighted steps. The odor of boiling cabbage permeated the house and there was also the odor of musty, damp clothes trying to dry on a rainy day. The girl stopped in front of a door and pointed to it.

"She's in there."

Ann gave her a quarter.

"Thank you, Miss."

Somehow Ann couldn't bring herself to knock. She had a sick, empty feeling as though she couldn't bear the scene that would unfold before her. She must not let herself cry.

She stood a few minutes with a pained, strained expression on her face. Several times she lifted her hand but she could not knock. She could not!

Finally, in desperation, she knocked faintly. It was Jean's voice!

"Is that you, Annie?"

Ann turned the knob and opened the door a little. For a moment she did not notice the cold, empty room with a cot, a dresser with a broken mirror, and a chair. She saw only Jean huddled in a chair with her coat around her.

"Wire me as soon as you've found her," she said. "I won't rest until I hear."

Ann went out and Mrs. Dryden stood at the front window and watched her walk up the street in the rain. She always experienced a feeling of pride when she saw Anna. She thought, "She's my daughter and she's unaware of her beauty and charm. She's an unusual girl and she doesn't know it. She should have all the things I haven't been able to get her. John Hamill can give them to her."

THE STORY OF SCHOOLS. III—In the Middle Ages.

If a donkey stood at an equal distance between two stacks of hay, and there were no more reason for him to go to one stack than the other, what would he do?

Romans and Greeks taught the "barbarians" to read and write. "Charles the Great, better known as Charlemagne," became ruler over France, Germany, and much of Italy. He was of the barbarian race and did not learn to read or write until after he was grown to manhood; but he took interest in learning and ordered schools to be started in his empire.

In England, Alfred the Great did all he could to help the cause of education. He declared that "all free-born youths" in England who were able to give their time to it "should be set to learn until they are able to read English writing."

Much of the teaching of children during the Middle Ages was done in village schools under care of parish priests. There were schools at monasteries as well, and we owe thanks to monks who copied ancient writings and saved them until the day of the printing press. Latin was the most common language taught in schools, and some pupils learned to write Latin but not their native language.

During the Middle Ages many famous universities were started. The first of these papers to have been located at Salerno, Italy, more than a thousand years ago. Other famous Italian universities were located at Bologna, Padua and Florence.

The oldest French university is the University of Paris, which dates back more than 400 years.

The University of Heidelberg is the oldest in Germany, but it was not started as early as Oxford and Cambridge, the famous universities which arose in England.

Boy and Four Women Hurt in Two Crashes

Four women and a 10-year-old boy were hurt in two automobile accidents in Atlanta late Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. W. H. Wilkerson and Misses Catherine, Margaret and Isabel Wilkerson, all of Rome, were injured when their car collided with the machine of a woman hit-and-run driver at Courtland and Ellis streets, according to Patrolman R. L. Moseley and T. E. Brown, who investigated. Mrs. Wilkerson, who was hurt about the head, and Miss Isabel Wilkerson, whose back was injured, were treated at Grady hospital, while the other two were taken to St. Joseph's infirmary. None was seriously hurt.

Police said Miss Catherine Wilkerson was the driver of the car in which the four were riding.

Struck by the automobile of J. D. Hadaway, of 125 Geneva drive, Decatur, when he stepped off a safety zone at Broad and Alabama, D. L. Clayton, 10, of 411 Kelly street, was taken to Grady hospital late Tuesday afternoon. His right foot was hurt. Hadaway took the boy to the hospital and reported the accident to police. No case was made.

WOMAN KILLS SELF ON SARASOTA STREET

SARASOTA, Fla., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Mamie Hobbs, 37, today walked into a drug store, purchased a small bottle of poison, stepped out on the street again, and returned a few minutes later, telling the soda clerk: "I drank it. I drank it."

She died in a few minutes, resisting an antidote.

Mrs. Hobbs had been married four times and A. D. Hobbs, who is both her son-in-law and step-son, said she recently had been despondent.

'Uncertain Lady' Seen At Rialto This Week

"Uncertain Lady," a brilliant sophisticated comedy with Edward Everett Horton and Genevieve Tobin in the principal roles, is now being shown at the Rialto theater tomorrow—a three-day run, which will carry it through Thursday.

This Universal production depicts the complications which ensue when a successful business woman looks over the list of possibilities for a husband—a husband to replace the one she is ready to give up to another woman via the divorce court on condition that the couple provide her with a satisfactory substitute.

With this background the plot is fast, hilarious and fascinating and should provide entertainment to delight almost all classes of theatergoers.

Manager W. T. Murray has also made a complete change in his short subject program providing an entirely new show for his constantly increasing list of regular patrons.

SPRATLIN HEADS NEW GRAND JURY

Body Is Charged to Make All Investigations Required by Law.

The September-October term grand jury for Fulton county was organized Tuesday and charged by Judge John D. Humphries, of superior court.

Frank M. Spratlin, of 2934 Habersham road, president of Spratlin, Harrington & Thomas, insurance firm, was elected foreman, and R. B. Pegram Jr., clerk, in the First National bank of Atlanta, was chosen secretary.

The new grand jury is charged by law with the investigation of county affairs, and Judge Humphries stressed the fact that while the body is not clothed with administrative authority, its authority to investigate and make recommendations is unlimited, and instructed the jury make all investigations required by law and repeat such recommendations as it sees fit.

In the court's charge the certainty of punishment rather than the severity thereof is held up as the best deterrent for crime.

"As long as those who are disposed to commit crime feel and believe that the chance of detection and arrest is largely in their favor they will take that chance," the judge pointed out. "But if they believe that they will almost certainly be brought to trial for crimes committed they will hesitate longer before committing crimes, even though the prescribed punishment be lighter."

The matter of juvenile reformation was placed before the grand jury with a suggestion that the jurisdiction of the juvenile court be increased from 16 to 17 or 18 years of age, in the absence of a reformatory for boys between the ages of 16 and 21.

"For years," Judge Humphries said, "I have thought that if youths convicted of crime could be placed in an institution where they might be taught a useful vocation, something constructive might be done with them, but the legislature has not seen fit to provide an institution of the kind."

Members of the new grand jury, in addition to the president and secretary, are: W. R. Whitaker, employee of Southern Bell Telephone Company; J. E. Orr, clerk, Atlanta Ice & Coal Company; E. S. Suter, salesman; William Newton, employee Georgia Power Company; Carroll R. McGaughey, electrical contractor; Harry B. McCash, clerk Coca-Cola Company; L. C. Sentell, of Dunwoody, Ga.; William A. Sims, insurance agent; L. P. Arnold, of the Atlanta-Brothers & Edwards; J. G. Norville Jr., 1085 Arlington avenue; J. G. Hamm, plumber; George S. L. 1475 Lenox place; N. E. George S. Lowman, Joe Mangum, of Model Laundry; W. A. Byers, E. O. Kellum, G. P. Wright, and J. O. Perry Jr.

Three other members will be chosen Friday.

W. E. DURHAM DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

W. E. Durham, 55, prominent for years in real estate circles in Atlanta, died Monday afternoon at 4:40 o'clock at the residence at 1099 Highland avenue, where he had been ill for several months.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Inman Park Presbyterian church, with Dr. Charles L. Smith and Dr. S. A. Cowan officiating.

Mr. Durham was born in Adelaide, S. C., on February 22, 1879, and had been a resident of Atlanta for the past 37 years. He was formerly associated with his brother in the jewelry business, under the firm name of the Durham Jewelry Company. For the last 16 years he has devoted his entire time to the real estate business.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Miss Jane Durham; two nieces, Thomas W. Jackson and J. B. Jackson, and two brothers, E. B. and G. F. Durham.

ENGINEER IS CLEARED IN FATAL ACCIDENT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 4.—(AP)—John Donovan, engineer of a Louisville & Nashville railway train, was exonerated by the Shelby county grand jury today of technical charges growing out of a grade crossing collision August 9 in which eight occupants of an automobile were fatally injured.

SAYINGAME

By THE SAYINGAME EDITOR.

This department has been frequently asked when the names of the Sayingame winners will be announced. Checking will not be started, of course, until after the final deadline, midnight, Saturday, September 8. Realizing that contestants will be anxious to learn who the winners are, this announcement will be made just as soon as all sets submitted are checked and judged.

Contestants who wish to submit their sets now may bring them to Sayingame headquarters, located on the third floor of The Constitution building, or they may mail them in. Attention is again called to the fact that sets, when mailed, must bear first-class postage. There is no advantage, however, in getting them early, since no packages will be opened until all are in.

Many players are taking advantage of these last few days—going over the answers selected, studying them to be sure they have the most reasonable answers for each picture. Others, appreciating that the Sayingame is the most certain to be a close race, with the winners separated from the non-winners by a few appropriate solutions, have decided to submit their second and third choice solutions on extra sets and are busily engaged in getting these up.

Back pictures, for making up extra sets, for replacing sets torn, or lost pictures in a set, may still be obtained at The Constitution office, or by mail.

Questions and Answers

The Judges.
Q.—Why haven't the names of the boys been announced? R. L. M., Atlanta.

A.—The Sayingame judges will not be chosen until the final deadline for submitting sets is reached, and their identities will not be made known until the list of winners is published; thus, they will not be inconvenienced.

SINCLAIR TALKS WITH ROOSEVELT

California Nominee Finds President Most Charming Man He Ever Met.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Radiating enthusiasm, Upton Sinclair, California's "epic" plan democratic gubernatorial nominee, left the summer White House tonight after "the most interesting two-hour talk I ever had in my life."

The former socialist and novelist left for New York to talk with James A. Farley, democratic national chairman, fired with fight for the New Deal and his own "epic" plan to end poverty in California which he said had the same objective.

The sparse, gray, curly-haired democratic nominee remained here a moment to keep an appointment with newspapermen in which he lashed back to Norman Thomas, socialist leader and recent critic, and to Herbert Hoover whom he termed the "friend of the millionaires."

Fuel Code Authority Withdrawal Accepted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—NRA tonight accepted the blanket resignation of the code authority for the retail solid fuel industry but coupled it with a sharp notice to the coal dealers that the code continues "in full force."

Crowded Day in Court Enriches City coffers

With 173 persons ordered to the stockade and $1,428 taken in through fines, the city recorder's court Tuesday experienced one of its busiest days in recent years.

During the three sessions of court, more than 300 prisoners arrested Saturday, Sunday and Monday, were paraded before Recorder John L. Cone and A. W. Callaway.

I am and he is. You know he is a very cheerful and kind-hearted man. He is a tonic to the nation.

"He told me he had only one grudge against me. That was that when he was a small boy his mother had read 'Jungle' (a book by Sinclair condemning practices in the old Chicago stock yards) to him at the breakfast table.

"I said that spoiled your lamb chop."

"He laughed and said 'yes'."

Sinclair said he had previously communicated with Farley and that this morning Farley had called him and arranged for an appointment tonight.

"I want to make his acquaintance," said Sinclair, "and express my loyalty to the president and tell of my hard work for the New Deal."

Fuel Code Authority Withdrawal Accepted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—NRA tonight accepted the blanket resignation of the code authority for the retail solid fuel industry but coupled it with a sharp notice to the coal dealers that the code continues "in full force."

The recovery administration's stand was given in a letter to the code authority which walked out last night with charges to Hugh S. Johnson that NRA policies had made their industry's agreement a "futile and unworkable thing."

The letter, signed by Colonel A. Lynch, NRA executive officer, termed the code authority's letter of resignation "substantially misleading," and added:

"Self government by industry is a privilege under the act which can only be exercised so long as the individuals constituted as agencies for that purpose operate in consonance with the interests of the public."

CUBA CELEBRATES NEWEST HOLIDAY

BATISTA'S MEN'S REVOLT OF Year Ago Honored With Special Flag.

HAVANA, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The bursting of bombs, the rattle of rifles and the shouting of rioters, Cuba today celebrated its first "fourth of September" holiday.

A year ago tonight top Sergeant Fulgencio Batista and his little band of conspirators rose suddenly in their "enlisted men's revolt," ousted their government of President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes and in its stead put five executive commissioners of their choosing.

President Ramon Grau San Martin succeeded the commission; President Carlos Hevia replaced Grau; President Carlos Menditeola followed Hevia, but Batista, elevated to the rank of colonel and keeping his grasp on the army, remained.

Batista's Day.

So today was his day, and little mindful of the ruction raised by groups he and his henchmen regarded as radicals, Batista made the most of it.

A special flag was designed and labeled the "Banner of the Fourth of September."

Musicians March.

So early today Colonel Batista, remembering that "music hath charms," sent his army musicians marching through streets still echoing to the thousands of shots fired in the two-day labor strike centered around the Cuban Telephone Company, American-owned corporation.

Today's initial violence occurred at the docks, where old labor troubles flared suddenly into rioting. One man was killed and another injured. A 15-year-old girl passing by was also gravely hurt.

Police said former employees at the docks attacked new employees, firing pistols.

The dock casualties raised to 14 the total of those hurt in the two-day disorders. A bomb at Marianna injured six persons, two others were hurt by bombs in Havana and three suffered wounds during the fighting around the telephone company.

Vallee Is Served With Balm Summons

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(UP)—A summons was served today on Rudy Vallee, orchestra leader and singer, in what was described as a $250,000 breach of promise suit.

Attorney Hyman Bushel, speaking for Vallee, said the action was brought by Frances S. Singer, of Hewlett, N. Y., Denver and Kansas City.

"In 1930," Bushel said, "she wrote to Vallee from Denver proposing marriage. I have all her letters. She said the songs he sang over the radio were sung to her. Her lawyer wants to settle out of court. I wouldn't give him a hearing."

3 SCIENTISTS RESCUED FROM ISLAND BY PLANE

MOSCOW, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Three Russian scientists, marooned for two months on Dunal island in the Arctic ocean north of the mouth of the Lena river, have been rescued by an airplane which flew over shifting ice lands in the mainland; it became known today.

The rescue was made August 13 by M. Golovin, a Soviet flyer.

The airplane took three other scientists to the islands who replaced the men brought back to the Siberian shore.

Flared suddenly into rioting. One man was killed and another injured. A 15-year-old girl passing by was also gravely hurt.

Police said former employees at the docks attacked new employees, firing pistols.

Ford V.8 Trucks

MR. FRANK BURNS, General Manager of Blue Line Storage Company, Des Moines, Iowa, writes:

"In our business the size of the loads carried often varies from 500 to 8000 pounds. When we receive a call for a truck, we do not always know how big a load is to be handled. Therefore, it is important to us that we have a truck with power enough to handle any load. We find that the 80-horsepower Ford V-8 engine has the ability to handle our jobs. Ford V-8 Trucks are modern in appearance, advanced in design. They provide riding comfort for the driver. Repair parts are low in price and we are particularly attracted by the cylinder assembly exchange plan."

Truck owners all over the country are enthusiastic over THEIR experiences with the Ford V-8 Truck. But what others say about the Ford V-8 Truck is not nearly as convincing as your own personal experience. Your Ford dealer will gladly arrange an "on-the-job" test for you with your own loads, on your own roads, with your own driver at the wheel. Call him and arrange this test today.

Three Stars Missing as Bulldogs Practice at "Y" Camp

GRANT, MINOT AND McCULLOUGH DUE TO ARRIVE

Lecture and Two Workouts Scheduled for Georgia Squad Today.

By Bill Ray.

ATHENS, Sept. 4.—Rain greeted the train-wrecked Georgia football team here this morning as they disembarked to trek through the woods to the beautiful peacefulness of the secluded camp site, where nestled in the mountains of North Georgia at the Athens Y. M. C. A. camp, the team will undergo an extensive two weeks' practice session.

Old Sol flared out after the 43 hungry footballers had partaken of a plentiful noon meal and Head Coach Harry Mehre sent them out to the practice field for a short afternoon workout dealing in calisthenics and general limbering up exercises.

THREE EXPECTED.

Three missing players were expected to arrive late tonight to make the selected practice group complete. They are: Cy Grant, the Cornelia cyclone of the backfield, Al Minot, halfback, and Dave McCullough, guard.

Coach Mehre gave the squad a long lecture this afternoon before he turned them out for the first trial of the camp playing field. He dealt with the "34 Georgia schedule and its difficulties and stressed the fact that he wanted plenty of reserve material to carry the team through this season.

The Bulldogs embarked from Athens at 6:40 this morning with a perfect train ride that told of many like trips via the iron rails. Taking complete charge of the Tallulah Falls train, they immediately started playing a game called "Monday morning coach," which is a test of football skill.

Coaches Vernon Smith and Rex Enright were right in the midst of the train hilarity, while Coach Mehre made the trip up in his private automobile.

It was a joyous group of 43 that started the trip, with horseplay and all the usual signs of a healthy footballer cooped up, in evidence.

After being in the camp only a few hours, the squad is acclimated and Coach Mehre expected to get down to serious work within a few days.

Tomorrow's schedule includes two full workouts and two lectures.

Another Tharpe Boy Appearing at Flats

Ernest—Brother of Mack and Bob—Is Promising Backfield Candidate on Varsity Squad.

By Jimmy Jones.

There is another one of those Tharpe on the football squad out at the Flats.

This one's name is Ernest. And he is fourth of the famous brothers from Moultrie, the prosperous and progressive south Georgia town, whose football ambitions have led them to Atlanta and Georgia Tech.

Ernest Tharpe, who will perpetuate the family name on the squad lists and programs of the Jackets, is a sophomore fullback of six feet and some 170 pounds. He is rangy like his brothers and a hard driving back—the kind who will scuffle and squirm for that extra yard.

The youngest of the Tharpe is the only backfield man in the family and a little proud of it. His brothers who preceded him were all linemen by inclination and talent, the most famous of the trio being Mack, the swash-buckling tackle of the '27 team which whipped Georgia on a muddy field as its most stupendous feat of an outstanding season.

Then came Bob, the platinum blond who played such a fine tackle for Coach Alexander on the teams of 1932 and 1933, making All-Southern last year.

Then there was Frank, another brother, who did not quite reach the apogee of prominence attained by the above named two. All came up from Moultrie.

Coach Alexander may be able to use Ernest Tharpe, the sophomore back, in his plans this year. He and Bobby Dodd must develop some reserves for the first quartet of Phillips, Martin, Street and Roberts. And he has some likely looking men in Tharpe, McKay and Hays, the sophomores, and Perkerson, Ferguson, McKinley and Boyd, reserves of last year who came along toward the end of the season.

STUDIES PHILLIPS.

Young Tharpe can kick and pass a bit, and right now he is understanding Jack Phillips, along with McKay, for the triple-threat duties that are handled by that worthy.

He played halfback on the freshman team last year, but Alex decided to make a fullback of him.

At any rate, the name of Tharpe will go on at Georgia Tech for another four seasons. And you may rest assured that this Tharpe, like Mack and Bob, is a fighter.

NEW HOLLAND WINS N'East Georgia Title

The championship of the Northeast Georgia league went to New Holland Tuesday when they defeated the Chippewa Mills team for the second time in the final series, 4 to 3.

BARNEY ROSS CHWACKI, DAVIS PLANS TO KAYO JIMMY McLARNIN AT BALL PARK

Twin-Titled Jewish Fighter Has Much Confidence in New Punch.

By Jack Cuddy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Twin-titled Barney Ross, confident that nature has transformed him suddenly from a mediocre hitter into a crushing puncher, will try to knock out Dynamite Jim McLarnin Thursday night.

In the Long Island bowl's light-flooded ring, the Jewish youngster who won the world lightweight and welter titles by virtue of speed and cleverness will do an about-face and try to level the Vancouver Irishman—one of pugilism's most famous knockers.

That's what the dark-haired Chicago lad promised today after two rounds of light boxing in Stillman's gymnasium, two rounds that virtually wound up training for his 147-pound defense against McLarnin from whom he wrestled that crown in May.

Sitting on a rubbering table with a towel draped about his well-muscled body, Ross admitted that he was somewhat angered by recent McLarnin statements. McLarnin was quoted as branding Ross a "cream puff" puncher, that at no time in his first fight did Barney's blows have any effect on him and that if he hadn't forced the fight against Ross there would have been no fight.

"Well, that first fight," Ross said, "I won that with plenty to spare. Now I'm ready for the second one. And I'll change McLarnin's mind about punching McLarnin's been knocked out before, Ray Miller did it in 1928. But no one ever put me out for the count. I figure I can take him with my second knockout, and I'll tell you why."

It seems that Barney added about five pounds to his shoulders since his first meeting with the west coast wallpaper. In addition he has concentrated on hitting with his whole body behind his punches during the training grind. He said he realized that he possessed a one-punch knockout, at last, during his recent workouts with Phil Raftery and Al Cassimini at Ferndale, N. Y.

"Every time I let one go, it stumped me," Barney explained. "I never hit that way before, although I did hit hard enough to kyo 11 opponents."

SINGLES MEET AGAIN HALTED; GRANT CROONS

Bitsey Entertains (?) Boys as They Mark Time While It Rains.

By Bob Cavanaugh.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Old Jupe Pluvius got another load of rain out of his system today and washed out the second round of the men's national singles tennis championship for the second straight day.

Consequently the final duel for the crown, originally scheduled for Saturday, has been put over until Monday, but there is a strong likelihood it will be further deferred since the weather forecast is no stranger to the week's rain.

DISAPPOINTMENT.

The second postponement was a disappointment to officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association for they had visualized a record gate for the final on the Sabbath, but it was welcomed by the players, especially those contestants from out of town.

It kept alive their tenure in the tournament and gave them an opportunity to devote the day to sight-seeing and other forms of recreation. Fred Perry, the black-haired British tennis champion, Grant and other New York, but he spent the day looking over the Broadway situation.

A handful of the boys spent the afternoon in the comfortable quarters of the West Side Tennis Club, where they played contract bridge while Bryan (Bitsey) Grant, the pink-skinned Atlantan interrupted them with some discordant crooning. Grant sang popular songs through a megaphone that was easily as tall as he is. He sneaked up behind Lester Stofen, the leaning tower of tennis and yelled in the Californian's ears:

OH, YEAH!

"Stofey, I'm coming to New York next winter and cut you down in the indoor championships."

"Yeah," replied Stofen, "you try it and I'll warp you, brother."

Providing the weather drier tomorrow, the U. S. L. T. A. will endeavor to complete the second round schedule of 32 matches which was interrupted yesterday after seven matches were played to a finish and two players had advanced to the third round via default.

The feature matches of the uncompleted second round will pit Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Texas, against lanky Dr. Eugene McCullough, of Yonkers, and John Van Ryn, of East Orange, N. J., against Henry Prusoff, the moustached Seattle star.

DUCK STAMPS.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 4.—An announcement is made that the "duck" stamp is now on sale at the Valdosta postoffice, and with the early coming of ducks to the lakes of this section it is expected that they will be very much in local demand. Every person shooting ducks will be required to have federal "duck" stamps affixed to the back of his state hunting license. The stamp costs one dollar—the fine for not having a stamp is $500.

Miss Stuckey Weds Mr. Uzzle At Impressive Home Ceremony

Miss Olive Herberta Stuckey became the bride of James T. Uzzle at a beautiful ceremony taking place Tuesday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stuckey on Morningside drive. Dr. Louis D. Newton performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends. Gladiolus and dahlias filled the floor baskets, which centered the decoration, and palms interspersed with seven-branched candelabra formed the effective background.

Miss Elizabeth Stuckey, sister of the bride, who acted as maid of honor, was gown in rust-colored crepe worn with brown accessories and a spray of gladiolus. Robert F. Uzzle, of Wilson Mills, N. C., acted as best man, and Miss Elizabeth Wright, of Atlanta, furnished the musical program.

The bride wore a costume of brown sheer crepe with harmonizing accessories and her shoulder spray was of orchids and valley lilies. Mrs. Herbert Stuckey, mother of the bride, wore a gown of black sheer crepe and her shoulder bouquet was of pink roses. Following the ceremony the wedding party was served a buffet luncheon, after which the couple left for a motor trip through the Blue Ridge mountains. After September 10, Mr. and Mrs. Uzzle will reside in Jamesville, North Carolina.

The couple graduated in the same class from the Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, N. C. Miss Stuckey has been a member of the faculty of the Wilson county, North Carolina, school system for the past three years and is a member of the Phi Sigma Tau society. Mr. Uzzle, son of Mrs. G. C. Uzzle, of Wilson Mills, N. C., is a member of the Sigma Alpha fraternity and during the past three years he has taught in the high school of Jamesville, N. C., and is the principal of the school for the coming year.

Roosevelt Auxiliary No. 13 Holds Meeting.

Roosevelt Auxiliary, No. 13, Spanish-American War Veterans, was held recently at the home of Mrs. Grady Andrews on Lucile avenue, and a new member, Mrs. W. Fincher, was received into the auxiliary. Mrs. Sally Mae Browning, the senior vice president, who has returned from California, where she attended the national convention, attended the meeting. There was a party planned for base hospital in the near future, of which Mrs. Stella Gilham is acting chairman. Mrs. F. W. Snell, the president of the auxiliary, presided.

The house was artistically decorated with cut flowers. A contest was held, won by Mrs. S. M. Browning, to determine who could make the most words from the word "Roosevelt." The punch bowl was presided over by Mrs. Mell Hood, and present were Mesdames F. W. Snell, Stella Gilham, Miss Kurtz Honors Miss Peggy Fuller.

Miss Nell Kurtz was hostess at a luncheon at the Green tearoom on Peachtree street Tuesday in compliment to Miss Peggy Fuller, a bride-elect.

The places for the guests were hand-painted placecards made by the hostess. The guests included: Miss Fuller, Misses Nina Fuller, Nancy Keeler, Scott Meader, Elizabeth Whitten, Susan Jones, Catherine Coates, Alys Kelley, Lundy Sharp, Mrs. Almon Raines, Mrs. Henry Kingdon and Miss Kurtz.

L. G. Wilson, W. Fincher, Z. T. Pate, R. C. Irwin, Sally Mae Browning, Mell Hood, R. J. Connally, E. L. Watson, A. L. Jarrard and Grady Andrews.

Miss Costner Weds Nathan B. Snyder Jr.

Announcement is made today by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams Costner, of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Nell Costner Therrell Costner, to Nathan B. Snyder Jr., the ceremony having been a quiet event of Friday evening, August 31, at the Druid Hills Baptist church. Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony which was witnessed by the bride's family and a few close friends. Miss Frances Ross acted as maid of honor, and Bill Snyder, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride wore a fall model of hunters' green crepe with satin stripes, trimmed with touches of white tulle and her accessories were black. Her costume was completed with a shoulder bouquet of gladiolus and roses, lilies of the valley and tube roses.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Nathan B. Snyder Sr. and the late Mr. Snyder, of Kite, Ga. He holds a responsible position with the American Railway Express Company.

Habersham D. A. R.

The board of management of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., meets on Thursday, September 6, at 10 o'clock in Habersham hall, 270 Fifteenth street, N. E., and Miss Juanita Chisholm, chairman of the board, will preside.

Mrs. Talmadge Weds Joseph H. McLaurin.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 4.—Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. John E. Talmadge Jr., of Athens, to Joseph H. McLaurin, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Washington, D. C. The ceremony was performed on Monday afternoon, September 3, at St. Luke's Episcopal church, in Atlanta, in the presence of the immediate family of the bridal pair, by the rector of the church, Rev. John Moore Walker.

matter of fact, it takes half the winter to undo the damage that the summer does to the complexion.

The reconditioning of a sun-tanned skin must be undertaken slowly. I'll tell you more about that when the season is entirely over. I wouldn't want to ruin your beach fun by yanking you out of the sun too soon, even if I could. Sunshine is so good for the constitution that you might as well get all you can of it. When you get over to Winter I'll give you a delightful and complete system of softening and whitening your skin.

Meantime, you will want powders and lotions that match your bronzed complexion. Light powders look strange on dark skins, and even if it is not considered fashionable to be brown, the people who are brown must have some powders that won't show.

Oglethorpe-Fort Polo Series Attracts Society's Interest

PORT McPHERSON, Ga., Sept. 4.—Highlighting the calendar in army sports will be the polo series to be played between the Fort Oglethorpe team and the Fort McPherston team this month. The first game of the series will take place on the polo field at Fort Oglethorpe on Sunday, September 9, and the third on Sunday, September 16. A midweek game is scheduled to be played on Wednesday, September 12.

Members of the army set are planning to motor to Fort Oglethorpe to witness the game on Sunday and both the military group and Atlanta will be represented among the spectators. Lieutenant J. K. Baker will captain the post squad and the players include Major Reese M. Howell, Captain Albert G. Wing, Lieutenant Christian Clarke Jr., Lieutenant Scott Sanford and Lewis Brown III.

Miss Alexander, of This City, Weds Mr. Pollard in Spartanburg

MRS. WILTON H. POLLARD.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Sept. 4.—A marriage of much social interest in the Carolinas, Alabama and Georgia was that of Miss Eleanor Plex Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Cecil Alexander, of Atlanta, and Wilton H. Pollard, of Huntsville, Ala., which took place on Saturday morning, September 1, at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Advent on Advent street, with the Rev. W. H. K. Pendleton, rector, officiating.

The church was arranged with palms and ferns and gladioli, clematis and roses in white. Before the ceremony Paul Nelson, organist, played "At Dawning," "Until" and "I Love You Truly." The Lohengrin Wedding March was used as the bridal party entered and the wedding march by Mendelssohn as the recessional.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage, and was met in front of the church by Mr. Pollard and O'Neal Landrum, who is becoming fall for trimmed model in green, with accessories to correspond, with a shoulder bouquet of Talamas roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Pollard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Cecil Alexander, of Atlanta, Ga., and was educated at Washington Seminary in that city. She comes of a long line of distinguished ancestors and on her maternal side is connected with the Hill family of Virginia.

Mr. Pollard is the son of Mrs. H. L. Pollard, of Huntsville, Ala., and the late Mr. Pollard. He is a graduate of the University of Alabama.

On their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Pollard will make their home in Spartanburg.

Former Atlantan Is Co-Author Of 'Children of the New Day'

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD.
An excellent review of "Children of the New Day," a book written by Katherine Glover, an erstwhile Atlantan, and Evelyn Dewey, published by D. Appleton-Century Company, appeared in the New York Herald Tribune magazine of August 26. Clara Gruening Stillman, one of the best known and most capable literary critics in the country, reviewed the book, and she declares that "Children of the New Day" is a manual of "child training which ranges from unifying laws of social and individual growth to detailed recommendations for diet, habit formation, etc., and suggestions for further study and experimentation valuable for parents, teachers and all others who come into contact with children."

Miss Glover is a cousin of Mrs. Lucius Harris, Mrs. P. R. Lachiotte and Clarence Ruse, of Atlanta. She lived here many years, belonged to important social and literary circles, and has had a great deal of experience in writing for newspapers and magazines. For a number of years she was connected with the children's bureau in Washington, D. C., hence her wealth of information upon the subject treated in "Children of the New Day."

"Children's Bureau." In 1909, under President Theodore Roosevelt the first White House conference on child health and protection was held at Washington. It dealt mainly with the dependent child, favoring the maintenance of home conditions against the rising tide of institutionalization. It established the children's bureau.

"Ten years later, under President Wilson, the children's bureau called the second White House conference. Its scope was wider, including child labor and children in need of special care. It initiated children's year and framed far-reaching resolutions. In 1929 President Hoover called together a group of child specialists, educators and social workers, pediatricians and public health experts, concerned with the health and protection of children, with no emphasis on special groups. All children were the preoccupation of this conference. The reports of the committee constitute a complete summary of all that is known in regard to children today, a study of conditions affecting them and a series of important recommendations for their welfare and protection.

"Children of the New Day," says Clara Gruening Stillman, "is an attempt to present and interpret the multitudinous facts, thoughts and conclusions brought together by the experts of the conference. It does not limit itself, however, to their reports, but draws on other sources of information as well, and the personal point of view of the authors informs throughout this brief of childhood flashed against the screen of the changing social picture. This awareness of revolutionary change in the child's world is the most striking aspect of the book."

Katherine Glover visited relatives here in July, leaving in August for California, where she is engaged in writing other tomes to be published at a later date. Everything possible for the enhancement and enrichment of life is incorporated in "Children of the New Day."

Uncle Sam's Child.
"There is first a brief survey of the status quo, a composite picture of 'Uncle Sam's child, who and what he is,' racially, historically and socially, followed by 'The Children's Charter' the declaration of the rights of children, the furtherance of which the conference pledged itself. This is a splendid and moving document for it puts as the right of every American child, regardless of race, color or situation, everything that the most intelligent and devoted patriot could wish," so states Clara Gruening Stillman. When Miss Glover came to Atlanta in July, she expressed to Mrs. Clif-

Lakewood Chapter No. 102, O. E. S., will entertain at its meeting Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Masonic temple, Lakewood Heights, in honor of Mrs. Pauline Dillon, grand conductress of the grand chapter of Georgia: Mrs. Grace Bramlett and W. T. Leslie, grand instructors of Atlanta district No. 3; worthy matrons; worthy patrons, associate matrons and associate patrons of the various chapters in Atlanta and Chattahoochee districts.

An invitation is extended to members of the order by Mrs. Mamie Sheridan, worthy matron, and Elmo Moore, worthy patron.

ford Walker the desire to know something of what was germinating in the south. Mrs. Walker steered her to the offices of the farm rehabilitation program, and to the University of Georgia to gain the new outlook upon what its students should study.

Miss Glover's interest was keen as she delved into the problems of improving farm life. She realized that the south is forging ahead in education through its new adaptation of survey studies in the State University System that will help students recognize the challenge of life and move it toward new goals.

Ever since she wrote that illuminating article, "And a Little Child Shall Lead Them," in Good Housekeeping some years ago, Miss Glover's readers have known that a child is always to be set in the midst of the people whom she discusses public conditions. She views the world of tomorrow by the children of today and the last chapter of her new book is concerned with the children of tomorrow, forecasting yet another generation ahead. This book, "Children of the New Day," is as practical in its applications as the writer and lives up to what one would naturally expect of the editor of the famous White House conference, filled as she was with the stimulating and informing reports of the epoch-making body.

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

SCHOOL DAYS START SOON

School bells will soon be ringing and thousands of children will be on their way to school each day. Many of these will venture forth into traffic alone for the first time. Schoolboys in many places will have learned to drive. The greatest responsibility for their protection rests with Mr. and Mrs. Motorist. Good rules to keep in mind to drive your car as you would if the child in the street, or the child on the corner were your own boy or girl.

As the beast came nearer still, the ape-man saw the tuft of white hair in the center of his mane between his ears. It was Bolshar! And Tarzan, seeing this mightiest of lions and remembering how the creature hated him, realized that there was only one chance in a thousand that he could live another hour!

GILLIAM SPEAKS

AT CLARKESVILLE

Candidate Ridicules
Claims of Opponents
About Friendship for
F. D. R.

CLARKESVILLE, Ga., Sept. 4.—
Speaking here this afternoon in the Habersham county courthouse in the interest of his candidacy for governor,
Ed A. Gilliam asked the question:
"Who is the best friend in Georgia of President Roosevelt?"

Gilliam said the pending contest for governor of Georgia presents a unique and curious spectacle, in that two candidates are each claiming to be the closest friend and strongest supporter of President Roosevelt within the confines of the state, while the people at large seem to be enveloped in a dense fog of uncertainty as to which of the two is the friend of the president's friend, or as to whether either one of the two is his friend.

"Judge Pittman," said Gilliam,
"has been going up and down the state informing the people that he is the closest friend and strongest supporter of the Roosevelt program in the whole state of Georgia. He has informed the people that Governor Talmadge is not only a critic, but a sneaking and undermining enemy of the Roosevelt program."

"On the other hand, Governor Talmadge has gone up and down the state claiming that he and President Roosevelt are bosom friends, as close together as Damon and Pythias, and that Mr. Roosevelt regards Mr. Talmadge as the greatest governor the country ever knew."

"One peculiar fact stands out in all this hurly-burly of controversy, which is that neither Governor Talmadge nor Judge Pittman has uttered one sentence as to where he stands on the repeal of prohibition. Governor Talmadge and Judge Pittman in 1932 were not only 100 per cent democrats, they were 1,000 per cent democrats. Everything in the democratic platform, and everything in Mr.
Roosevelt's speeches, suited them fine, including the democratic declaration and the Roosevelt declaration for prohibition repeal."

"Mr. Talmadge and Judge Pittman were brave and fearless and outspoken democrats in 1932, when the democratic program of prohibiting repeal was the outstanding national issue, but now in 1934, in a campaign for governor of Georgia, they are both affiliated with prohibition."

"I have not gone to Washington to seek aid and comfort from President
Roosevelt in behalf of my candidacy.
I have had the benefit of no high and mighty party leaders running up and down the state, telling me to take a hand in the Georgia situation. I have sent no bank presidents on airplane trips with a Macedonian cry to the White House."

Gilliam discussed in detail the several main points of his platform, No
1 being repeal of the Georgia prohibition law and No. 2 being a general revision of the tax system of the state.
He left here to speak Wednesday morning at Homer and Wednesday afternoon at Jefferson.

DAHLONEGA MAN DIES
FOLLOWING ACCIDENT
DAHLONEGA, Ga., Sept. 4.—(AP)—
James B. Strickland, 41, died in a Gainesville hospital today from injuries received when he was struck by a truck while working for a construction company at Dahlonega.

He suffered a broken leg and other injuries in the accident which occured last night.

Cradle of Mercer Rededicated at Penfield

Prominent Georgians gathered at Penfield Monday and witnessed the dedication of the old Cicero hall (shown below), century-old building on the campus where Mercer University was founded more than 100 years ago, which will be used as a school plant. Upper group includes some of the participants in the program, left to right, Dr. Louis D. Newton, chairman of the committee that raised the funds to modernize the building; Major R. J. Guinn, of Atlanta; Dr. B. D. Raggsdale, historian of the Georgia Baptist convention and principal speaker of the occasion; Henry Y. McCord, Atlanta; Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech.

mittee in charge of the affair. Photos by Walton Reeves.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 4.—(AP)—
The use of rosin as a base for manufacturing explosives has been suggested to the war department by Brigadier General Robert J. Travis, a member of an ordinance advisory board of the department.

The army ordinance department reported that experiments revealed rosin could be nitrated but that the resulting product is viscous and does not lend itself to practical handling.

However, General Travis believes the problem of viscosity can be solved.
General Travis said development of such a use for rosin would prove of great benefit to the south.

CHURCH AT POWELLTON
HOLDS 148TH BIRTHDAY
WASHINGTON, Ga., Sept. 4.—
Upwards of 2,000 persons were on the grounds of Powellton Baptist church Sunday in a home-coming to celebrate the 148th anniversary of the church organization.

In the day exercises, Rev. George
C. Steed, present pastor, presided, delivered the welcome address, after devotionals conducted by Mr. E. W.
Ragsdale, a denomination historian of Mercer University. The response was by Dr. O. E. Herndon, a former resident of Powellton, now head of the veterans' hospital at Columbia, South Carolina.

"Our Old Church" was the subject of an address by C. W. Wheeler, of Washington, and a son of the veteran superintendent of the Sunday school and plans were made for a big rally to be held later in the week, at which several prominent speakers will urge the re-election of Governor Talmadge.

SUMTER FORMS CLUB.
AMERICUS, Ga., Sept. 4.—The Sumter county Talmadge Club has been formed here with Judge R. L.
Maynard, present president, and vice president, and Sherrard Horne, secretary.

The club has passed a resolution quoting the candidates for the legislature and state senate on their stand on the $3 auto tag, diversion of gasoline tax for school purposes, and if they will vote to sustain the governor's action in removing the members of the public service commission.

WAGERS APPEAR.
CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 4.—
One Cartersville man, who has been on a long ride in a wheelchair, hand-propelled. Two local citizens, O. J.
Hill and L. R. Beck, have made a wagon on the result of the governor's election and the loser is to push a wheelbarrow from here to the capital in Atlanta, the winner being a passenger in the one-wheeled vehicle. Hill is for Pittman and Beck is for Talmadge.

WINDER SCHOOLS OPEN
WITH BIG ENROLLMENT
WINDER, Ga., Sept. 4.—The public schools of Winder opened Monday morning. Opening exercises for the high school were presided over by Superintendent F. L. Ivey, with an

KILLER SHOT DOWN AFTER 5 MURDERS

Illinois Truck Operator Captured; Says He Slew 2 Others.

FULTON, Ill., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Five persons were slain by Fred Blink, 45, Fulton truck operator, today before a police bullet brought him down, his gun still smoking, near the approach of the Mississippi river. At a hospital in nearby Clinton, Iowa, Blink told authorities he had killed two more victims.

Blink was arrested after he was wounded twice, once when he attempted to turn his shotgun on himself, and then by Frank Kustes, Fulton policeman, who saw Blink's weapon and the life of John Hamilton, Fulton farmer, at the bridge approach.

Kustes captured Blink after an exchange of shots and took him to the (Clinton) hospital where he was placed under arrest.

Another man, unidentified, was seriously wounded at the bridge approach before Blink surrendered to the officer.

Blink did not lose consciousness and told police he had killed seven persons.

The known beside Hamilton are Harry Menje, Fulton; Mrs. Tim H. Corrick Jr., Des Moines, Iowa; a Mrs. Walters, of Fulton, and an unidentified man about 70 years old.

The bodies of four victims were found in a water of blood in the John Hamilton farm house a mile north of here. They were the unidentified man, Menje, Mrs. Corrick and Mrs. Walters.

Whether Blink pursued Hamilton from the farm to the bridge approach a mile away could not be learned.

Patrolman Kustes, who had been in Clinton, across the river from here, was returning home when he heard the sound of Blink's automatic shotgun and saw Hamilton fall to the middle of the paving of the bridge approach under its rail.

He stopped his car and from behind it opened fire with his pistol. Blink turned the gun on himself, wounding himself in the face.

One of Kustes' bullets found its mark, and Blink fell to the pavement.

The victims at the farm were apparently shot to death while they covered against the wall of the homestead.

The bodies were found by a search party which went to the farm after Blink made his statement to police.

Police also were searching for Lee

Ice from Tide Power Object of Expedition

DUNKIRK, France, Sept. 4.—(AP)—A unique floating factory designed to make tropical sea water produce cheap ice when it is most needed steamed out of Dunkirk harbor today for its first test.

The experiment is to be conducted at Rio de Janeiro and where the ice ship's inventor, Georges Claude, 64-year-old Frenchman, awaits her. A few hours behind the ice ship sailed the S. S. Mysion, carrying a tube which, when fitted together, is one-half mile long, part of the ice-making equipment.

The ice ship is the 10,000-ton steamer, Tunisia, outfitted with a fantastic plant for producing electric power by the action of warm and cold water drawn from different levels of the sea.

This free power inventor Claude intends to use to produce 1,000 tons of ice daily to cool the drinks and preserve the food of sweltering South Americans.

Hamilton, brother of the dead man, and Fred Van Zuden. They feared that both had been slain or wounded after Blink's statement that his gun had killed seven victims.

Police who shot Blink's home in Fulton where they questioned his wife to seek a motive for the killings.

According to police, Blink said that her husband operated the Hamilton farm jointly with Hamilton. She said that Hamilton had owed Blink money for a long period and that when he left the house this morning he told her he was "going to do something about that money."

The man who was with Blink when he was captured was not identified, and witnesses were unable to determine whether Blink had purposely turned the shotgun on him or whether he felled an innocent bystander.

Strike Is Called Off By Garment Makers

Following an agreement by both sides to arbitrate, the threatened strike of the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, set for Tuesday, was called off. A.
